GAME CLUB NEWS: The Beaver Island Game Club has planned an excellent dinner for all you hunters who plan to get your buck on Beaver Island. The dinner will be held on November 15th, with serving from 6:00 P.M. to 7:30 P.M. The menu this year will consist of 1/2 of a Beaver Island Northern Fried chicken, with potatoes, gravy, cranberry sauce, cole slaw, dinner rolls, coffee and cake. Mrs. Mary Gatlin and Mrs. Ada Martin are in charge of the kitchen and they and their committee promise you a delicious dinner. The evening's entertainment will include the showing of films from the Conservation Department on various phases of hunting.

The Game Club is again awarding $25.00 for the heaviest deer taken from the Island. The deer must be weighed by the Conservation officer on the Conservation scale. The winner must be a member of the Game Club prior to his shooting the deer. Ask any of the local merchants about membership. Memberships will also be taken the evening of the dinner.

Vernon Fitzpatrick informs us that the Conservation Department has taken another test of Fox Lake to determine the amount of toxicity remaining in the water. We are sorry to report that the fourteen brook trout placed in the lake have died, meaning that the poison has not yet disappeared. Vernon explains that this is due to the fact that the lake is not used and the water has remained quiet during the summer months. On mainland lakes where other activities occur such as boating and water skiing, the poison disintegrates much more quickly. There is still some chance that the 2500 brook trout will be placed in the lake this year. However, if not, they will be planted in the Spring. All trout placed in the lake, regardless of when they are planted, will be legal size and available to the angler next year.

Archie LaFreniere, with much assistance from his hound dog "Duke", shot the first coyote of the season on October 27th.

Rogers "Dead Eye" Carlisle shot two partridge with just one shot. He must be carrying a horseshoe in his pocket.
Karl Kuebler was the first to connect with the geese this year, and Troy Yoder of the Conservation Department got a beauty, too.

There have been a number of reports of sighting of pheasants on Beaver. Years ago, when farming was done more extensively, pheasants were very plentiful, but with the abandonment of farming, the birds gradually disappeared. Now that we have a number of farms in operation again, perhaps we can once more enjoy the sport of hunting these tasty birds.

The six wild turkeys released in August at Angeline’s Bluff have been seen near town. They appear healthy and have grown considerably. Since these birds have done so well, we are pleased to know the Conservation Department is planning to bring more turkeys to the Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neer had an unusual experience a short time ago. They kept finding partially eaten rabbits in their garage. One evening as their car lights shone in the garage, they saw three large cats. Frank set a trap for the animals and to date has captured twelve of them, the largest weighing 18 pounds! Some of these cats are born in the wild, while others were, at one time, family pets that ran away and reverted to the wild. Frank says they grow to tremendous size in the wild and are very destructive to small game, as they become excellent hunters.

Last year our Game Club cleared out a trail from the road, just North of Dody’s camp which lies on the road that turns off the West Side Road and runs Northeast back of Miller’s Marsh. The trail ran Southeasterly to the middle of the North end of the main body of Lake Geneserath. They also painted marks on trees along this trail-red facing South-yellow facing north. These marks are close enough together and large enough that no one should be able to cross this trail without seeing the painted marks. Many hunters used this trail last deer season and some nice deer were taken there.

This year the Game Club has added two more trails. One leaves the fishing site area on the North arm of Lake Geneserath and runs Westerly to join the trail put in last year. It joins that trail about 1/2 mile North of the Lake. This trail is marked also-orange to the West and aluminum to the East. There is a location map at each end of this trail.

Also a trail has been marked from Dody’s camp, Southeasterly to the West side of Lake Geneserath and generally parallel to the 1960 trail. This is marked blue to the South and white to the North. Both this trail and the 1960 trail have location maps at their beginning on the road. These two trails can be reached by car on the road below Miller’s Marsh. All three trails make good hiking trails. They are well marked and easily followed. The painted maps give you a good idea of the roads at the South end of the Island and their relation to these trails. Try them.

Hunters in our local houses of refreshment almost invariably get around to discussing merits of their dogs. But a certain gentlemen from Chicago has topped all stories so far. He claims he and his pointer were out walking in a park one afternoon. They came upon a man sitting on a bench and suddenly the dog stood like a statue in a perfect point. The dog owner tried to move the dog, but he wouldn’t budge. Finally he asked the gentlemen on the bench if he had something in his pockets that would cause the dog to behave in this manner. The man replied to the contrary. The dog owner introduced himself and asked the other man his name. “I’m Mr. Partridge,” the man replied!
BEAVER ISLAND HISTORICAL SOCIETY: Mr. A. J. Roy has received one of the original pictures of Fedora Protar from Mr. and Mrs. Pat Bonner. It is a large photo of Dr. Protar sitting in front of his home. Mr. Roy had the picture framed and it now hangs in our museum. Ask to see it when you visit the Island.

We now have available the diary of James J. Strang, which has been transcribed by Mark A. Strang, grandson of the Island king, and published by the Michigan State University Press. Much of the original diary was written in code. The diary covers the period of Strang's life from 1831 to 1836 and was discontinued at that time because of lack of cash to purchase another blank book. It has been transcribed with accuracy and gives you an insight into the character and type of man who was later to become so much a part of Michigan history. Anyone interested in Strang's life and ideas will find this a fascinating book. There is also an excellent bibliography for those of you who wish to delve further into the story of James Jesse Strang. The book is available from the Beaver Island Historical Society for $3.75 plus postage.

The ice cream social held at the museum attracted over 70 visitors. We were happy to see the interest shown in our efforts to promote the Historical Society.
